Championship form

Goaltender Kevin Smith finds himself stretched in all directions as he attempts to stop a shot by a Hartwick Construction player. Smith did indeed stop enough shots as his team, Sid Stamp Fuels, captured the Men's Recreational Hockey League championship Monday night at the Minden arena. They defeated Hartwick 4-3 to take the best of three final in two straight games. See page 10 for details.

Board will reconsider school plan

by Susan Grober

In what has been called a brave move, trustees have unanimously decided to re-open the accommodation issue.

During last Tuesday's meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education, Minden Trustee Wally Bunn moved a motion to hold a special meeting of the board on April 15 for the sole purpose of reviewing all accommodation options, including Option #5.

"I'm sorry to do this, but I still don't feel comfortable with it," Bunn said of the board's chosen plan to build an addition to Archie Stouffer Elementary School and establish a junior high school in Haliburton Village for all students in the county.

Bunn was one of the majority of trustees who approved this accommodation plan last October.

But since that time, a number of people have expressed concerns about busing Grade 7 and 8 students to Haliburton Village, and about the $7.6 million cost of the project.

Bryan Kernohan and Doug Campbell have studied the issue and developed another option, known as Option #5, to build additions to both Archie Stouffer and J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School in Haliburton, at a cost of $1.6 million less than the board's chosen option.

However, parents, municipal councils and members of the Taxpayers Coalition of Haliburton County have continued to put considerable pressure on the board to consider this new option.

The board referred Option #5 to its management committee, which in effect rejected it on March 4 by recommending that the board increase the number of classrooms planned for

Trustees comb through budget

by Susan Grober

Local taxpayers will have to wait another month for the Haliburton County Board of Education to pass its final budget.

Although Business Administrator Jim Bradley has worked out a draft budget for board expenses in 1992, he has encountered a problem in determining how much grant money the board will receive from the Ministry of Education.

Earlier this month, the ministry provided boards across the province with the general legislative grants. Bradley must apply this formula to determine how much grant money the board will receive to offset its expenses.

Unfortunately, says Director of Education Brad Saunders, the information from the ministry was sent on 5-1/4 inch computer disks, while the board uses 3-1/2 inch disks. So the board must ask for the appropriate sized disks.

Saunders says the amount of revenue the board receives from the province will have a great effect on the final budget.

If the ministry grant is low, trustees may be forced to go back to the budget for more cuts, he said.

Bradley hopes to work out the revenue by the end of this week. Once the revenue is determined, the board will hold another meeting before finally approving its budget during its next regular meeting on April 28.

In the meantime, the full board was presented with the draft budget at a special management committee meeting last Tuesday afternoon.

"This has been one of the more difficult budgets to try and get together," Bradley told trustees.

The board has been under considerable pressure from the public to keep costs down.

But grant money is tight, with transfer payments from the province expected to increase only one per cent in 1992, and two per cent in 1993 and 1994.

And at the same time, costs are steadily increasing. Bradley said a major cause is the number of programs mandated by the province, including the implementation of Junior Kindergarten planned for 1994.

Bradley went through the draft budget line by line with the trustees.

At $16,056,585, the total draft budget is $1 million more than last year's, an increase of 6.47 per cent.

Trustees argued that some areas of the budget were too high. Len Salvatori said $19,000 budgeted for telephone bills is much too high.

Bradley said much of the cost goes toward equipment rental. "For three of those schools, the flat rate would run over

'Miracle baby' dies

Breanna Barras, the miraculous little girl who defied the odds with her will to live, died in her mother's arms last Tuesday.

Breanna was born six years ago, and at the age of three months doctors discovered she had hydrocephalus, a condition which caused an excess of spinal fluid around her brain.

By the time she was four years old, Breanna had undergone more than 30 surgical procedures and had suffered 60 major hemorrhages.

Through it all, the little girl astounded her family and doctors with her ability to recover after being given only hours to live.

Breanna's mother Judy took an extended leave of absence from her job with the Ministry of Natural Resources Minden office to care for her daughter and moved to Peterborough to be close to the hospital and Five Counties Children's Centre.

She is survived by her parents Judy and Randy, grandparents Betty and Bernard Trumbull, and Art and Joyce Barras, and great-grandparents Edna Trumbull and Verna and Milton Hancock.

A funeral service is being held today (Monday) in the chapel of the Monk Funeral Home in Minden. Memorial donations can be made to the Children's Wish Foundation.

Plans to upgrade Minden's water supply heard at meeting

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Minden council is ready to upgrade the village's water supply, whether government funding is available or not.

At a special public meeting last Wednesday, the township's consultants explained the current condition of the two municipal wells on Bobcaygeon Road and suggested a third well be dug on the same site.

The possibility of establishing a well near the fire hall on St. Germain Street was rejected because the quality of the water does not meet provincial guidelines.

John Lackey, one of the consultants with Triton Engineering, said the estimated cost of the work is $300,000, although he cautioned that the figure was only a rough estimate.

Tim Lotomer, also an engineer with Triton, reviewed the history of Minden's water system and the causes of the current supply shortage.

He said the municipality first applied for funding to establish a municipal water system in 1958. Five test holes were drilled and the site on Bobcaygeon Road across from Deep Bay Road was chosen as the best site.

The only problem with the location was a large amount of mica in the sand and gravel, which could result in the well becoming plugged. To address the problem, it was decided to use a coarse screen in the well, and the water system was hooked up in 1962.

By the late 1960s the well had begun to fail, and the municipality decided to drill a second well. Assuming the failure of the first well was caused by the mica, the engineers designed an even coarser screen. At the same time the capacity of the first well was restored, and it became evident that the pump house had begun to sink into the ground because of the sand being drawn into the well.

In 1972 the wells failed again, and again they were rehabilitated, although the second well could only be brought back to one-third of its original capacity.

The engineers cautioned against further rehabilitation efforts because of the real risk of a catastrophic failure of the pump house.

During the 1980s the environment ministry quit doing detailed testing of municipal wells and, as time wore on, the capacity of the two municipal wells in Minden was reduced.

In 1987 and 1988 Minden experienced extremely dry summers and, because of concerns about the ability of the two existing wells to meet the demands of future development, the municipality decided to find an alternative source of water.

A test well was drilled near the fire hall on St. Germain Street which yielded a good supply of water. Problems arose during the chemical testing of the water quality, which showed turbidity levels which exceeded provincial guidelines for drinking water.

Turbidity is caused by suspended solids and prevents the sterilization process from working properly. Because it was unlikely the St. Germain well could be cleaned out sufficiently to meet the ministry's guideline, the consultants turned their attention back to the site on Bobcaygeon Road.

Lotomer said the site was a proven source of water and was well protected from contamination by the sandy soil. Analysis of the location showed the two existing wells had previously failed because the coarse screens had allowed too much sand and soil to enter the well.

Because of improvements to well technology in the past 30 years, Lotomer said it is possible to design a well which will keep all the sand, soil and mica from entering the well, resulting in a stable long-term water supply which will produce 300 gallons a minute and accommodate 20 more years of development in the village.

After the new well is established, the original well will be rehabilitated. The second well, which is now operating at just 15 per cent of its capacity, is too far gone to restore.

The engineers will also build a new pump house which will be set on pylons to stop it sinking into the ground.

A representative of the environment ministry, Terry Healey said the province funds municipal sewage and water projects and, in the past, the level of funding has been as high as 85 per cent.

Before a municipal request is considered for funding, it must be evaluated by a committee which judges the priority of the project as compared to the needs of other municipalities.

When the provincial budget is released, the ministry begins funding projects from the top of the priority list and stops funding when the money runs out. Minden's request has already gone through the evaluation process, but Healey would not say where the municipality stands on the list of the priorities.

Healey said if Minden is denied funding and proceeds with the well anyway, the municipality will have to assume all the costs and no funding will be available after the work is done.

Clayton Cameron, the municipality's superintendent of public works, said the township's portion of the cost of the work will be paid for by the residents who are hooked into the water system, and will not be paid for out of tax dollars.

There was some concern by residents about the possibility of cancer causing agents the addition to Archie Stouffer to accommodate a mandated Junior Kindergarten program.

A motion to increase the additional classroom space from 8 to 12 rooms was included on the agenda for last Tuesday's meeting. But Bunn moved to table this motion until the April board meeting, after the full board gives further consideration to all options.

Bunn contacted the Minister of Education to make sure the board can postpone the funding request for the additional classrooms, which is to be included in its forecast for capital expenditure allocations for 1993 to 1997.

Bunn said the minister will allow the board to hold-off the forecast for another month, "until I feel a little more comfortable with this."

Each of Bunn's motions, which were seconded by Lutterworth Trustee Cheryl Murdoch, received unanimous approval of the board.

Director of Education Brad Saunders said the meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. "at a site to be determined, but it will be well and duly publicized."

Murdoch noted that she and Saunders have been asked to attend a Lutterworth council meeting to discuss both the accommodation plan and the board's 1992 budget.

She questioned the sense of attending a meeting since the board hasn't made any final decisions on either issue. "If they come to us, it's for some kind of answer, and we don't have that right now," she said.

All agreed with Chairman Nancy Stinson's suggestion to send a letter to each municipal council in the county inviting them to the April 15 meeting.

"I think the councillors should get a letter, but there should be a public notice in the paper as well," added Murdoch. "That way you cover all the bases."

During last Thursday's meeting of Minden council, Doug Campbell commended the board for agreeing to re-examine the issue.

"I think it was a very courageous decision on the part of the board," Campbell said. "I think this council in particular has done a first class job of opening it up again."

When asked what will occur between now and the April 15 meeting, Campbell said: "There will be a review of all the options, and I believe Bryan and I will be invited."

"This was a big step for the Board, and they are to be commended for their open action," Reeve Bern Berry said at the meeting. "This is an even bigger step towards Government bodies collectively working together for the betterment of Haliburton County."

Berry thanked members of the local councils which "joined together to establish a format to enable all parties to further communicate on a subject that affects all taxpayers."

Municipal councils which have asked the board to reconsider its plan include Minden, Lutterworth, Sherborne and Glamorgan.

Berry also thanked Minden trustees Mary Anne Wilson, Wendy Ladurantaye and Wally Bunn, who "were also instrumental in achieving this co-operation," and Doug Campbell and Bryan Kernohan for preparing and presenting the alternative plan.

"Anson, Hindon and Minden Council is proud to have played a part in this co-operation," Berry concluded.

Locals get a taste of native culture at forum

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Five hundred years ago, an Italian sailor named Christopher Columbus bumped into the Caribbean Islands while trying to find a sea route from Europe to the Far East.

The Europeans who colonized the "New World" have hailed Columbus as a great hero and credited him with the discovery of North America.

But for the numerous native civilizations which populated the American continents for thousands of years prior to the voyages of Columbus, the arrival of Europeans has resulted in the near destruction of their cultures and the irrevocable change in their traditional way of life.

Last Tuesday, members of the Curve Lake native community shared some of their thoughts about what the 500 years since the arrival of Columbus means to them.

The forum was co-sponsored by the Kawartha 500 Years Recovery Committee and the local Community Enrichment Forum and attracted about 60 people to the Minden Cultural Centre.

Participants were welcomed to the forum by a demonstration of traditional native drumming performed by Sherman Butler, Melvin John and Troy Miracle.

During the drummers' warm-up, a small boy presented the men with a bag of tobacco. Each of the men took some of the tobacco, said a brief prayer, and scattered it on the surface of the drum.

Among many native cultures, tobacco is a sacred herb which is believed to have been given to humans as a special vehicle with which to communicate with the Creator, and it plays an important role in the symbolism of native spiritual beliefs.

After the welcoming song was played, Rev. Edward Moll, who is a member of the Enrichment Forum and one of the organizers of the meeting, thanked everyone for attending and explained the purpose of the gathering.

He said while 1992 is being celebrated as the 500th anniversary of Columbus' first voyage to the Americas, it also provides an opportunity to think about the First Nations who were here before Columbus and here before the Vikings.

He encouraged everyone to participate in the discussion. "We are here to learn and we are here to listen, we're not just bringing our own particular ideas and agendas," he said.

Sherman Lewis, a member of the Kawartha 500 Years Recovery Committee, said the forum will allow natives and non-natives to relate better to one another. "It's better than solving problems in other ways, like Oka."

Doug Williams, chief of the Curve Lake Reserve, purified the gallery's common room with a "smudging" ceremony, which involved burning a small amount of sage in a shell and letting each person in the room "wash" themselves in the smoke.

After the smudging, Williams said a prayer in the Ojibwa language, giving thanks to the four directions of north, south, east and west and the gifts they bring. When Williams was done, his wife Alice repeated the prayer in English.

Troy Miracle, Sherman Butler and Melvin John demonstrate native drumming during Tuesday's seminar on native issues, sponsored by the Kawartha 500 Years Committee and the Community Enrichment Forum.

Lewis explained that the Kawartha 500 Years Committee is a group of natives and non-natives who want to promote the true history of the last 500 years and promote awareness in the community about native people.

Audience members were asked to identify native issues in which they are interested or questions they would like to have answered. While many people said they are interested in native issues in general some wanted to now more about specific subjects like native land claims, the concept of native self-government, interim agreements with the province covering hunting, fishing and trapping by native bands and an interest in native culture.

Other people said they wanted to put a human face on the issues surrounding the native population by having personal contact with the people involved.

During a panel discussion, five native representatives expressed their thoughts on what 500 years of contact with white civilization has meant to the aboriginal population.

Alice Williams

Alice Williams, wife of Chief Doug Williams, told the audience about the belief that when human beings were created, each race was given a different home land. North and South America was given to the natives of those continents, black people were given Africa, yellow people were give the Far East and Europe was given to white people.

Of all the races, the whites were given the gift of travel and spread across the globe.

She said her people were given instructions by the Creator on how to have respect and how to be kind. "The reason for that, is so we would all have life on this Earth in a good way," she said.

"We believe life is a circle. When you do one thing that isn't right, it affects the whole thing," she said. "We don't do things in isolation and think it won't affect anyone else."

While natives have been willing to co-exist with the white man, Alice said their generosity has not been repaid in kind.

"We shared this land. We shared and shared and shared until we were left living on small pockets of land the white man didn't want," she said. "That is our history. That is what happened to us since the white man came. When our forefathers signed treaties, they had guns to their heads. Sometimes the army was there or the RCMP was there and they were not on our side."

These differences in attitude still exist today.

"If a white man came to our reserve and he was starving, there isn't a home in Curve Lake that would take him in and feed him," she said. "If an Indian walks down the street in Peterborough, he is not treated the same way.

"We have survived genocide. We have suffered cultural genocide and we have suffered oppression. We have been deprived of our homeland.

"It isn't the black people who did this to us, it isn't the yellow people who did this to us and we didn't do it to ourselves," she said.

"I want to tell the white man that in the 500 years he's been here, this land has been raped, the water system is poisoned and the fish are dead. We live a lifestyle that is dictated to us so other people can make money off our lives."

Doug Williams

Doug Williams spoke next, admitting that his wife's speech would be a hard act to follow.

"I see a lot of destruction and I see a lot of hopelessness," he said. "I have a lot of bitterness, but over the years I've learned to mellow."

Williams said there are two schools of thought on the impact Columbus had on the North American continent. One opinion is that Columbus represented the beginning of progress, a good life, Christianity and saved the natives from the "ravages of wandering around aimlessly".

The other school of thought deals with the negative aspect of European influence, including slavery and exploitation.

"As a native person, I can't accept the celebration of our destruction," he said.

Concepts like development, progress and industrialization represent the "Americanization" of the world, said Williams, and in that respect both native and non-native Canadians face a common challenge.

"To the Americans, we're just a bunch of bushmen who have got a bunch of resources," he said. "You've got problems too."

After 500 years of living together on Turtle Island (a native term for North America), Williams said natives and non-natives have to learn to get along.

"Whatever colour you are, you've been tied to Turtle Island so long you have a connection to this land. You can't go back to Europe," he said. "You are stuck here and we have to accept you."

On the subject of the interim hunting and fishing agreement between Ontario natives and the provincial government, Williams said his parents lived and died without the right to hunt and fish, but the interim agreement has only been in force for a year.

While there have been several reports describing native abuse of resources, Williams says he hasn't personally encountered those kind of incidents.

"If I'm being accused of not respecting life and the gifts we've been given, I resent that," he said. "It's not true."

He said he's opposed to the use of four wheel drive trucks and modern weaponry by natives while hunting, and said its unfortunate some have adopted those practices.

Pauline Trebasket

The third speaker was Pauline Trebasket, a native from the Okanagan Valley in the interior of British Columbia who is attending Peterborough's Trent University.

Although she comes from the west, Trebasket said it's been her experience that natives in Canada have a common history and a common culture based on the land.

Prior to five years ago, she said there were no natural deaths among the people of her community, and alcohol and suicide were the leading causes of death. She asked the audience to imagine the effect those conditions would have on a community.

In their struggle to achieve recognition, Trebasket said natives need the help of non-natives.

"The reality is, we're a minority. We need allies if change, constitutionally and politically, is going to happen."

"When we assert our rights, we're not saying only we have those rights."

Native issues are more prominent now than they ever have been before and that has led to a state of confusion, she said. "A majority of people have not had to deal with us as human beings."

She said there is no easy definition for native self-government and self government, in itself, is not going to solve all their problems.

Trebasket also dealt with the controversial issue of the Ministry of Natural Resources' interim hunting policy for natives.

"If the MNR tells my brothers they can't hunt when there is no meat in the freezer, they will not acknowledge that," she said. A generation of native people have lost some of their traditional ways, and are now suffering because of it.

"White people themselves exploit, just as we've learned to exploit," she said. "There is a lot of work to be done."

"We can have a million scapegoats, but it's only us who are accountable and responsible. If we don't cooperate and co-exist, we aren't leaving very much for the future."

Becky Big Canoe

"The time has come to face up to things that aren't too easy to face up to," said Becky Big Canoe, the fourth speaker in the panel discussion.

"Five hundred years is a long time for us to get to know each other. I think we know a lot about you, it's time for you to really get to know us."

"We talk about land and resources, we're like a couple of chickens fighting over a worm and while we're fighting the worm gets away."

She said natives and non-natives have to put away the hurt and anger and build bridges between the two communities.

"When native people talk about our rights to hunt and fish, we're talking about the responsibilities given to us by the Creator," she said. "When we assert our rights, we're not saying only we have those rights."

Sherman Butler

The final speaker on the panel was Sherman Butler, a native who now lives in Peterborough where he makes traditional drums.

He said he thinks about self-government on a much more personal level, as it pertains to his family and relatives.

"I believe we're doing it all wrong, asking you for permission for self-government," he said. "I don't need your permission, I don't want your permission. It's just a question of me getting off that chair and doing it."

He also put land claims into a personal perspective.

"I've got no land, I'm renting in Peterborough," he said. "I'm looking for a choice piece of property."

During this 500th anniversary of the arrival of Columbus, Butler said natives and non-natives should celebrate their co-existence.

"Let's celebrate us, 500 years of us," he said. We've lived this long without killing each other off.

"We've fought through a lot of battles like Wounded Knee and Oka. I've stood as a warrior against the government and non-natives. Today I am a teacher, trying to teach you how to heal ourselves."

"My days as a warrior are over."

by Susan Grober

This year's annual staff meeting at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home was topped off by a special appreciation tea for the staff.

Pins were awarded to recognize employees who have served 10, 15, 20 and 25 years at the Seniors' Home last Wednesday, and all staff members were invited to gather in the auditorium for tea, punch and goodies.

Administrator Rheta Jones said this is the first year such pins have been presented to staff, and the practise will become an annual event.

"We do recognize we have a lot of caring staff here," she said. "But quite often they don't get the recognition they should."

Also on hand to show their appreciation were County Warden George Simmons and Minden Reeve Bern Berry, who is also chairman of the Hyland Crest Board of Management.

Berry, who has been on the board seven years, said he empathizes with the Home's staff members because he is helping care for an elderly mother. "I have a feeling for what you do, and that's been driven home to me the last couple of years."

Berry also offered the employees words of encouragement in caring for the residents.

"It is a hard task and it must get you down," he said. "But chin up and do your best, and I'm sure you will."

Simmons said the dedication of the employees at Hyland Crest provide the residents with stability.

"They need that stability because they're more than just one day or two day visitors," he said.

He told the employees to look ahead to the future, and get ready for a few rough years ahead as tax restraints may bring changes. "The people of Haliburton County are going to decide the future of this institution."

Simmons and Berry awarded pins to the following employees:

in the water supply, but Lotomer said the ministry tests include 114 different parameters and Minden's water meets all the guidelines.

Some residents also complained about the effect that the chlorination process had on the taste of the water. Lotomer suggested leaving the water in a jug in the refrigerator overnight to allow for the evaporation of the excess chlorine.

Village resident Verne Graham urged council to take immediate action to increase Minden's water supply. With interest rates so low, Graham said the council should borrow the necessary money to complete the work if ministry funding is not approved.

Reeve Bern Berry said the purpose of the meeting was to give people a chance to see what council is struggling with. He said council will be making a decision very shortly and "if it has to be debentured, it has to be debentured. Minden will not die."

Seeing all sides of accommodation issue

There were audible sighs of relief in Minden last week as news spread of the Haliburton County Board of Education's unanimous decision to review its accommodation plans.

While the issue is not yet resolved, the board's decision is the first step toward fostering the spirit of co-operation and compromise necessary to find a reasonable resolution to the question of school accommodation.

Although many of our local trustees undoubtedly felt besieged by the opposition which had welled up against them, they demonstrated a tremendous show of faith by re-opening the issue for review, including a further examination of the option proposed by Minden residents Doug Campbell and Bryan Kernohan.

In return, those who have been critical of the board should accept the expertise brought to the debate by board members and administration and realize that any decision will have to address all concerns.

With all sides willing to give a little, it should be possible to come up with a school accommodation plan which meets the needs of financial responsibility, educational requirements and the continued viability of all the communities involved.

The school board must also be applauded for holding a special public meeting to openly review the options, which will hopefully go a long way in rebuilding the trust which has been lost during the last three months.

With a major obstacle out of the way, now is the time to put any emotional responses behind us. We must let reasoned thought determine a positive solution for all concerned.

Some people will do anything for fame

In the future everybody will be famous for fifteen minutes.

The hunter — let us call him Lars — must have known he'd made a bad decision. Hunting alone in the Italian Alps was a risky proposition at the best of times.

But in the late fall, when the temperature can plummet and blizzards materialize as fast as a sorcerer's spell, it was as dangerous as dicing with death.

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

The cold needled his cheekbones and gnawed at his wrists and ankles.

He could feel it seeping inexorably through his hooded leather parka and the fur boots stuffed with straw. His aim had been true and his quarry — a fine, fat mountain goat — was wounded, no question about that.

But the trail of blood flecks he'd been following was vanishing before his eyes in a welter of swirling snow. The sky was an ugly purple bruise and the wind was snarling down from the north.

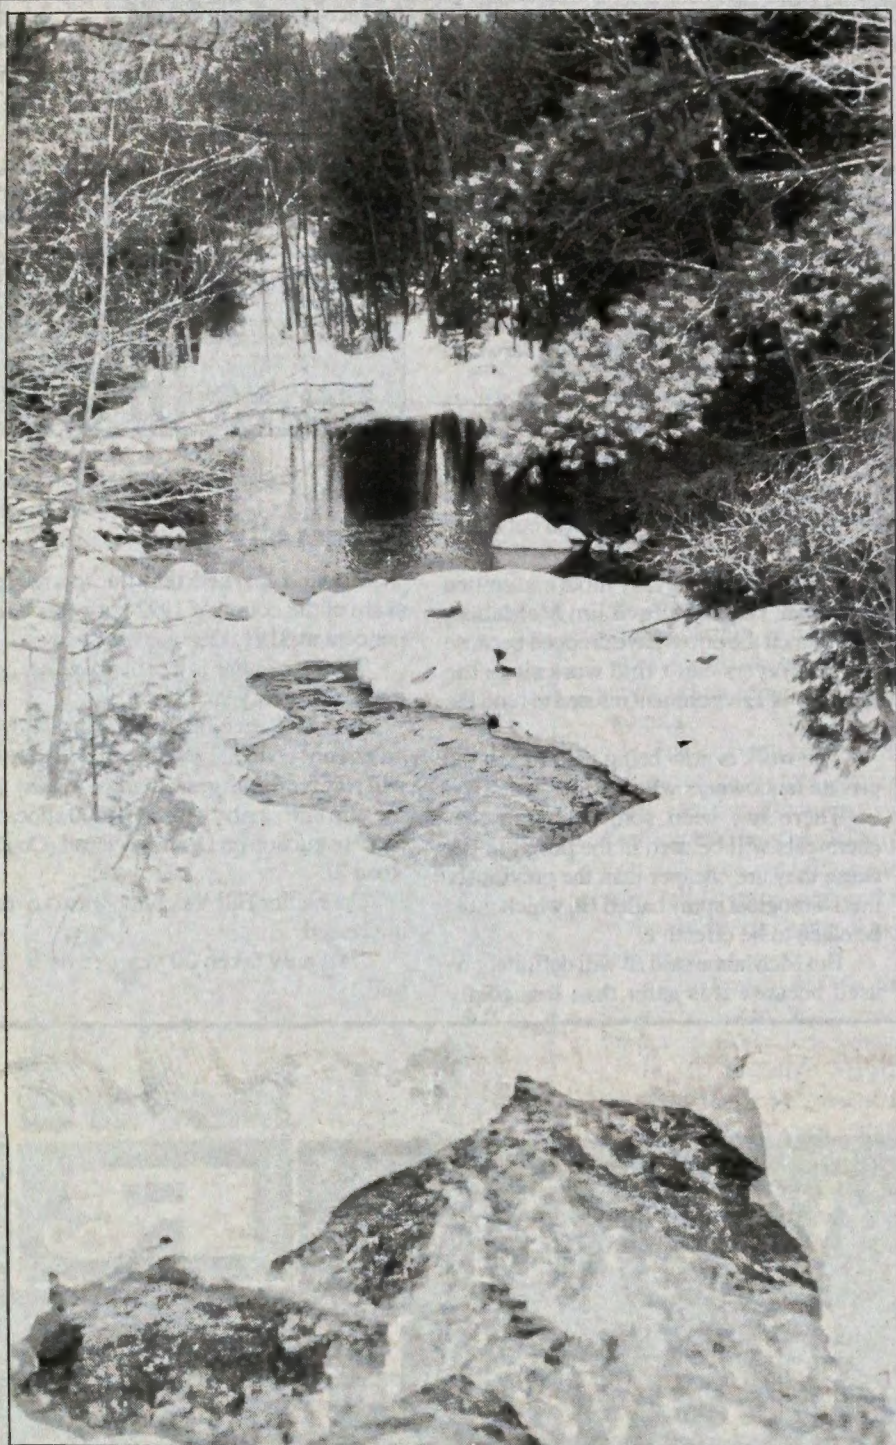

And it was getting colder. If he could just find some shelter he could hunker down and start a fire.

But there was no shelter — only barren rock and drift-

Extras in county CAO's salary add up quickly

Editor:

At a recent meeting of county council, it was determined that the county's Chief Administrative Officer, whose annual salary is $50,300.00, was actually paid $78,711.00 during 1991.

The extra amount was apparently for expenses incurred, additional salary charged for extra meetings, car allowance plus mileage charged at .31 cents per kilometer, clothing allowance and vacation pay (as he chose not to take holidays).

Our local governments must monitor all expense accounts closely, not only of employees, but elected officials as well. These are tax dollars being spent, and every effort should be made to ensure there is no abuse of expense accounts provided to employees and elected officials.

At the recent Taxpayers' Coalition meeting, the question as to the amount allowed for mileage was questioned and while these may seem like small amounts, it is when all such sums are added together they suddenly become large amounts.

Typos in letter peeve reader

Editor:

Last week I submitted a letter to the editor of your paper and this week I am embarrassed because of the way my submission was "mutilated" in the publication process.

There were punctuation errors, capitalization errors, grammar errors and words omitted or changed.

I realize that my handwriting is not perfect and that you have publication deadlines to meet, but I would urge you to be particularly prudent in proofreading material submitted by the public so you do not discourage them from contributing to your paper in the future.

Mummified man's corpse claimed by woman

ing snow.

So tired, thought Lars as he limped along, leaning on his ice axe. I'll just rest awhile. Kneel down. Catch my breath...

* * *

The two German mountain climbers had picked a wonderful day for a late September climb in the Italian Alps. The sun was so bright it hurt the eyes and from the broad back of the Similaun glacier, more than six thousand feet above sea level, they could see the ragged peaks of the Austrian Tyrol many miles to the northeast. They stopped, ate lunch, took photographs, were about to move on when one of them saw something brown and frail and skinny sticking out of the ice.

It was an arm. A human arm. And it was attached to the man we call Lars.

The rest of Lars, still kneeling as he died, was encased in ice. As was his ice axe, his straw filled boots and parka, his weapons and his backpack.

Well, what of it, you say. A rather grisly, but not at all that uncommon Alpine tragedy — a mountaineer gets lost and freezes to death in a blizzard. Then some other mountaineers find his body. Is that so amazing?

Only when you examine the interval between death and resurrection. The German mountain climbers found the corpse on September 19th, 1991. Scientific analysis has determined that Lars took his last ragged breath some time around 2,000 B.C.

In other words, give or take a century, the body of Lars the hunter is 4,000 years old.

And remarkably preserved. His clothes are mostly gone, but there is still hair on his head and teeth in his mouth — even visible tattoos on his back.

His Bronze Age ice axe looks like it was made yesterday and the flintstone knife on his belt is still sharp enough to skin that goat, had he ever caught up to it.

It's ironic. A nameless, pre-literate hunter lives in obscurity and dies alone in one of the remotest reaches of the planet; lies encased in glacial ice for four millennia, and then, by a fluke, before the sun or the ravens or wolves could finish the job that Mother Nature overlooked...he becomes a celebrity.

For Lars is famous. His sightless eyes have already gazed back at readers from the pages of newspapers and magazines. His mummified mug has startled viewers on CTV News and The National.

But is that it for Lars? After 4,000 years offstage, just a flash of world fame, then back to the dustbin of history? Are you kidding? His fifteen minutes aren't up yet.

Last month, a Geneva woman appealed to the Swiss Foreign Ministry to claim the corpse. She claims it's no Bronze Age hunter — she recognizes the guy. It's her father, she says, who disappeared back in the 1970's.

What next? Teamsters swearing it's the body of Jimmy Hoffa? Fans protesting that they've found Elvis?

Welcome to the twentieth century, Lars.

Trustees debate proposed maintenance budget cuts

$200 just for equipment," he said.

Bradley also explained that he scans the bills, and tracks down any calls made to unusual long distance telephone numbers.

Superintendent of Education Dale Robinson added that two modems were installed last year to access data banks at universities. "It's worthwhile," he said, but it's also costly.

"I think you'll find with a lot of this budget, we're down as low as we can be realistically, hopefully," said Bradley.

However, many trustees felt that the budget for plant maintenance is far too low.

In the draft, the expenses for plant operations have been cut by 5.4 per cent, from $1.48 million to $1.4 million.

Bradley said this section has "taken the biggest beating of the lot."

Repairs and maintenance are cut from $294,000 down to $128,000. And programs to replace windows, fencing and doors have been deferred.

"Our plants are not new plants, but everybody's feeling the pinch," said Bradley.

Calling it "foolish" to cut costs on maintenance, Trustee Lloyd Griffiths was the first to speak out against the move.

He said he's seen many schools in other boards in deplorable condition, which end up costing more money down the line for repairs. "It grieves me," he said.

Tim Casey agreed. "It should be a five per cent increase," he said. "We're only cutting off our nose to spite our face. It's one area we always cut ruthlessly, and how long are we going to do this?"

Craig Pettit said to postpone the costs now will mean trouble in the future. New windows are desperately needed at the Cardiff school, creating a great heat loss, he said. "We'd spend initially, but save in the long run."

Bradley said this would be the best year to put in windows, because prices have dropped in the recession.

Salvatori expressed frustration with the budget process, and said co-operation is needed to cut costs in the right areas. "We're scared to touch salaries, or to change to PTR (pupil teacher ratio) just slightly. If you eliminate a couple of teachers, you'd have the money where you want it."

Casey said he can't go along with that section of the budget. "We're running our equipment down to the ground," he said. "Everybody should take a good long look into it, and their own plants in their own communities."

Bradley said to bring the plant operations budget back up would mean a 0.4 per cent increase to the overall expenses.

Another major item in the budget is instructional salaries and benefits, which are expected to increase by 12.8 per cent, from $8.9 million to $10,075,900.

Of the salaries, Bradley said: "These are legal documents that we really have no way of opening up or dealing with."

And although the number of teachers will increase by one, Bradley said this actually represents a decrease because enrollment is expected to go up by 5 per cent, or 80 students. "The PTR (pupil teacher ratio) is being increased," he said.

Instructional supplies will increase 4.9 per cent, to $482,000. On the other hand, instructional capital will drop 5.4 per cent, to $60,000.

A few trustees expressed concern about spending money on such costly items as VCRs and television sets.

Robinson explained that new English programs require a media studies course. "So they need to make tapes and watch them."

Bradley said the proposed instructional expenses could be much higher, if the board heeded all the requests made by staff.

"The response I heard was they were not happy," Bradley said of the staff's initial response to the budget. "But once they looked it over they were willing to make the cuts."

Administration costs are up only one per cent at $1,164,405.

Transportation costs are expected to stay the same at $1.7 million.

Tuition fees, paid for local students taught by other boards, are to increase by 16 per cent, to $650,000.

Non-operating expenses have been shaved 17 per cent, down to $128,000. And the cost of a new computer initiative is $50,000.

Special education costs, which include contracts with service agencies such as VON, Kinark and Five Counties Children's Centre, are to increase by 5.6 per cent at $180,400.

Items under the heading "other services," such as professional development and bursaries, will decrease 13.7 per cent, from $190,723 to $164,500.

The budgeted cost per pupil for 1992 averages out to $7,636, a two per cent increase over last year. This does not include any revenue, such as grants, and combines elementary and secondary level enrollment.

In considering this increase, Bradley said it's important to note that enrollment is expected to increase.

The board's original draft budget saw a proposed 8.5 per cent increase. Administration staff went through the document and reduced the increase to 6.8 per cent.

Then the management committee shaved off another $100,000, before coming up with the present 6.47 per cent increase over the 1991 budget.

Deep Bay Road project costs $430,000

The following matters were discussed during the March 19 meeting of Lutterworth council.

Gypsy Moth

Haliburton County's gypsy moth spray program is still a go, the tenders are out, and the prices for spraying have been cut by almost half.

The township's gypsy moth committee chairman, Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon, told council the prices have dropped because many sprayers can't find work since the Ministry of Environment refused to fund the program.

The work is now being paid for by the private landowners who are affected.

There has been some concern that chemicals will be used in the program because they are cheaper than the previously used biological spray called Bt, which must be eaten to be effective.

But McMahon said Bt will definitely be used because it is safer than less costly chemicals.

Lutterworth news briefs

Budget bits

Council learned that the township's share of the county's 1992 budget is 8.065 per cent at $191,026.

The percentage is less than one per cent lower than last year's share.

Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon, who sits on county council, noted that Lutterworth will receive the largest chunk of money for roads in the county, with $430,000 allocated for construction on Deep Bay Road (County Road 2).

Councillor Bill Valentine wasn't overly impressed.

"It's only taken 20 years to do it," he said.

Local artists show off talents at gallery

Vote for your favourites at the annual Members' Show

by Susan Grober

A wild and wonderful assortment of art is currently on display at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery.

Watercolours, wood carvings, weaving and whittling are just a few examples of the exhibits on display for the annual Members' Show.

Viewers even get the chance to participate by casting votes to choose the winner of a People's Choice award, to be presented during the closing reception on Saturday, April 11, from 2 to 4 p.m.

But voters must be forewarned — it won't be easy to choose the best work from the wide array of talents on display.

Some of the items bring viewers back to the days of old.

Merv Bunker's whittling, entitled Rest Time on the Trail, brings to life six horses harnessed to a Conestoga wagon. The fine details include real hair from Sinc Nesbitt's horses on the manes and tails, a working brake on the wagon, and little bags of wheat, flour and corn as cargo.

Elizabeth Carrell's In the Spring a Lady's Fancy... also offers a look into the past. The work features a straw hat festooned with flowers Carrell dried herself. The hat sits on top of folds of antique lace, and is surrounded by strings of pearls.

A few pieces are inspired by the native American Indians.

Claudio Mestroni's carving of an eagle, etched out of a moose antler, is a powerful work. Mestroni also displays a vivid oil painting of a native woman.

Shyrlea Preston's three dimensional paper tole of an Indian maiden features real feathers and beadwork. Anyone not familiar with paper tole will be interested in this work, and her rendering of two blue jays.

Funnybones will be affected by some of the more humorous works in the show.

In Gil Parcell's acrylic painting, Home Improvement, a rural family chooses an outdoor location for a brand new toilet, just delivered by Sears. In Hockey Champ, an impish young boy shows a toothless grin while proudly displaying his newly-won trophy.

Shirley McCormick's whimsical watercolour of the Dominion Hotel features a sign in the window advertising local band Harmony Road, May 10 & 11.

And you can get an idea of H. Lloyd Johnson's sense of fun, and colourful imagination, just by hearing the titles of his driftwood carvings: Crocodyl, Birdactyl, Space Wizard and Valdezed Puffin.

Peter Pennington even adds a touch of whimsy to a dramatic watercolour landscape by calling it Caution: Beaver Crossing.

There are some interesting stories behind many of the exhibits, including how Shirley Jenkins-Duff stood in a ditch on December 24 to take a dramatic photograph entitled Impending Storm, which is printed on canvas.

Vicki Cross used scraps from her son's old workshirts to weave a wall hanging called Years Gone By... (This sentimental piece is one of a few which are not for sale, although many other items at the show can be purchased.)

Helen McNaughton and Ron F. Hall took a canoe trip and painted in remote areas for inspiration, and came up with such pieces as her Lake Superior Shoreline, and his West Killarney Light.

Kenneth Bowron, a descendant of the family who owned the Bowron home- stead, has a watercolour on display with his own handcrafted wood frame.

Yvonne Guida has submitted portraits of two talents near and dear to her heart, actor Robert DeNiro, as seen in The Mission, and Spanish tenor Placido Domingo.

And Joan M. Hoad's contributions include a mixed media painting, Dancing Pines, done in a patchwork of pastel shades, which is a departure from her usual works.

"I think it's nice to see the people bring in a variety of things, and I think the quality is good too," the gallery's acting manager, Irene Lubowitz, says of the works displayed by the 27 members represented at the show.

"There are so many types of work, so how can you decide which is best?" she adds.

"Different people have different approaches, and it's interesting to see that on display."

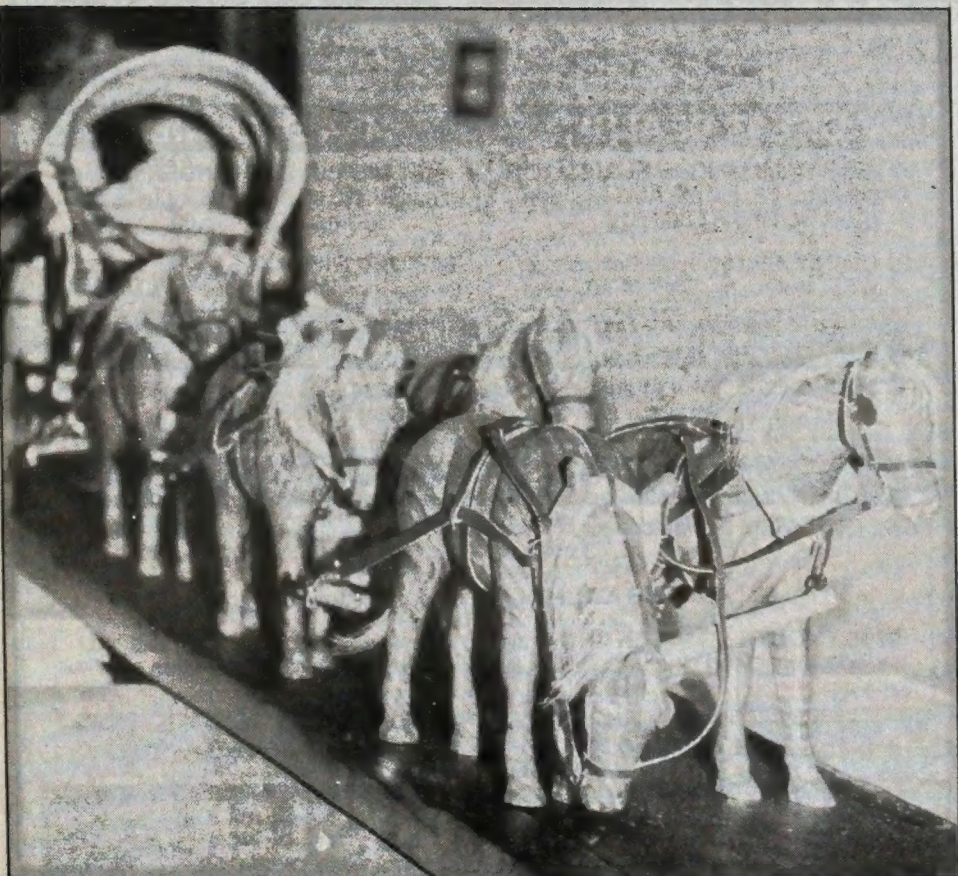

The show runs until April 11, so there's lots of time to get your vote in.

The gallery, located on Bobcaygeon Road north in the Minden Cultural Centre building, is open Monday to Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For further information call 286-3763.

Gil Parcell's humorous painting, Home Improvement.

Merv Bunker's piece, Rest Time on the Trail, features six horses pulling a wagon.

John Lennard's oil painting of the Gull River.

Claudio Mestroni carved this eagle from an antler.

Sid Stamp Fuels end hockey season as champs

The championship Sid Stamp Fuels men's recreational hockey team pose with their trophy following last Monday's game. Members of the winning team include, from the left, front row, Shawn Gilligan, Larry Sawyer, Kevin Smith, Paul Walker and Doug Schell; in the back row, Bart Hilhorst, Dave Pettes, Andy Campbell, John Fedeski, Ted Vasey, Kim Colliss and Joachim Matysek.

Sid Stamp Fuels has won the Men's Recreational Hockey League championship.

The team clinched the best of three play-offs Monday night with a 4-3 win over Hartwick Construction. The champs took the title in two games straight.

While the score indicated a close game, Stamps had control of the play for most of the 50 minutes.

They scored early and maintained the lead through to the final buzzer. Hartwick suffered from a shortage of manpower, leaving the team with less than a complete second line.

While the players poured their hearts into overcoming the Stamp lead, they came up one goal short of a tie.

Joachim Matysek opened the scoring for Stamps early in the game, connecting on a pass from Shawn Gilligan. Andy Campbell followed on his heels with a second for the fuelers. Assists went to Larry Sawyer and Kim Colliss.

Hartwick managed a single before the period ended with Dave Dollo finding the mark off a pass from Jason Stamp.

Stamps went ahead with a third goal at the start of the second frame, Shawn Gilligan notching a marker off a pass by Matysek and Dave Pettes.

Jeff Stamp responded for Hartwick on an unassisted break-away that pitted his stick handling against the spider-like agility of Kevin Smith. Jeff won.

Sid Stamp Fuels widened the goal once again with Dave Pettes scoring on a pass from Matysek and Ted Vasey.

As the seconds ticked away, Hartwick pulled their netminder, Rob Crowe, and pressed the attack.

It worked once with Jeff Stamp scoring his second of the night with the assist going to Jason Stamp and Brian Marquette. However the Hartwick team just wasn't able to find the mark for the fourth and tying goal and when the final buzzer sounded, Sid Stamp Fuels had the one goal edge and the championship.

The game brought to an end another Men's Recreational Hockey League season.

Once again this year the Monday night games provided an excellent evening of hockey entertainment, both for those in the stands and on the ice.

Congratulations are in order to the organizers, players and the champions, Sid Stamp Fuels.

Redmen honoured at football banquet

Andy Bacon and Peter Brohman have been named the most valuable players on the HHSS Junior Football team.

The pair led the team to the Central Ontario "AA" championship this year with an 8-0 regular season record.

The selection of the two players for the honour, though expected, was not made public until the end of a special banquet Tuesday evening at the Haliburton Legion.

Team coach Gary Brohman described Andy Bacon as a "quiet leader" whose actions spoke louder than words. He noted Andy had led the team in rushing with 1531 yards over 126 carries, was third in receiving with 90 yards over three receptions and second in punt or kick-off returns with 252 yards on 11 carries. His record earned him 124 offensive points, a new school record.

"He's a fine young man," Brohman told the audience, "and he's still got two more years in football."

Peter Brohman, Coach Brohman's son, shared the MVP award with Bacon. It was pointed out Peter had a versatility which allowed him to play just about every position on the team.

Peter was the team captain and led the Redmen in pass reception and punt/kick-off returns. In 17 pass receptions he gained 143 yards and in 13 carries returned the ball 177 yards.

He was also second in rushing with 761 yards over 95 carries and completed three passes in 11 attempts for a 90 yard gain.

Brohman also led in defensive points with 133, a new school record, and placed second in offensive points behind Bacon.

The two players received double honours. Andy Bacon was also awarded outstanding offensive player trophy, while Peter Brohman received the outstanding defensive player trophy, known as the animal award.

Coach Bruce Griffith presented the outstanding lineman of the year award to Todd McCracken, who he described as a hardworking, dedicated player, who was "truly a team leader".

The coach said his dedication could be best illustrated by the fact he attended practises on crutches after suffering an injury in the first game of the season. "He just didn't want to miss one night of football," the coach said.

The guest speaker for the evening was the athletic director and head football coach of the Wilfrid Laurier University in Waterloo, Richard Newborough. He has been coaching football at the university since 1968 and this year led his team to the Canadian University Championship. He was also named coach of the year.

Coincidentally Newborough coached HHSS vice principal and football coach Gary Brohman and physical education instructor Tim Davies when they were students at WLU. He also noted that Duane Cooper, a recent graduated of HHSS and the Redmen football teams, was a member of this year's championship team.

The guest speakers at the HHSS Junior Football Team championship banquet was Canadian University Coach of the Year Richard Newborough. Listening to the speaker are head table dignitaries, HHSS principal Peter Forgrave, and football coaches Paul Morissette, Gary Brohman and Bruce Griffith.

Coaches Gary Brohman, left, and Bruce Griffith flank this year's most valuable players Andy Bacon and Peter Brohman. The selection of the two was announced Tuesday evening at the junior football team's championship banquet.

Newborough congratulated the players for their accomplishments. "You are champions," he told the audience of players, parents and coaches. "You deserve the honour of this evening."

However, the university coach challenged the players to not only be champions on the football field, but to carry that attitude and outlook into all aspects of their lives.

As champions, he told the gathering, the players should be prepared to set an example for their fellow students and younger brothers and sisters who are currently looking up to them as heroes.

He suggested simple things in everyday lives could spread the championship attitude throughout everything they do.

For example he said champions accept praise and adulation graciously, "rebound a compliment back to the person who offers it."

He said living like a champion can be as simple as setting an example by picking up a scrap of paper in the school hallway, being appreciative of the contribution your parents have made to your success or choosing what's right over wrong.

"You are champions 24 hours a day," he told the attentive audience, "you should be acting like champions all the time."

Newborough said the players have to also transfer that winning attitude to the academic side of their schooling.

He pointed out that Ontario universities are under greater financial stress and that admission requirements are being tightened.

"Just a word of caution, don't wait until your final year to get your marks in order. Keep up with your studies and give yourself that university option."

He congratulated the team on its successful season and said he would be happy to see more HHSS Redmen football players on his own team at WLU.

The players and guests thanked the coach with a standing ovation.

Members of the championship team included: Andy Bacon, Scott Bacon, Brett Beach, Andy Billings, Peter Brohman, Chad Connelly, Trevor Daley, Jim Dewey, Chris Dobbins, Jamie Fryer, Rhys Gray, Eric Greaves, Mike Hartwick, Dave Hughes, Paul

Hockey banquet set to go

With our hockey teams finishing up for another season, it's time to get ready for our annual banquet. This year it will be held at the community centre on April 25th.

We have planned to let everyone who wishes to, have one final skate for an hour starting at 3 p.m.

Then it's upstairs we go for a dinner and presentation of trophies for all our players.

Also, we will be asking for more volunteers for next year. This part of our festivities will take place until 6 p.m.

That same evening we will have a dance, with a disc jockey, and a light meal.

The price is $30 for a family of four, which includes admittance to the dance. Single tickets are also available for $10.

Your coaches will be calling you soon to find out how many tickets you will need.

This event is for everyone, so invite your family and friends and come join us for a good time!

Roy Colliss.

On Thursday, the team gathered together to show our appreciation for making us look so good.

The boys presented John

Lane of Ontario Hydro with a plaque and his very own Ontario Hydro Monarch sweater. Keith Thomas from Francis Thomas Contracting, and Kim Colliss on behalf of his father, Roy, were given team pictures and plaques.

The players, parents and coaches have been fortunate to have these donations, and truly appreciate your support.

Free photography advice offered at Minden gallery

There is a lot to see at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. The annual Members Show is now on exhibit.

There are paintings of flora and fauna, birds, Indian maidens, landscapes both actual and imagined, as well as photography, stained glass, weaving, knitting and sculpture in clay, wood, antler carving and a fine whittling of six horses and a Conestoga wagon.

The talent is truly impressive. Not only is this a chance for the members to display their work, it is also an opportunity for the viewers to participate as well. You can cast a vote for your choice of the "Best in the Show". The ballots will be counted and award given at the Closing Reception on Saturday, April 11 from 2-4. So come at least twice. Once to look around and vote and again on the 11th of April to enjoy refreshments and the pleasure of the winner of the "People's Choice" award. Everyone is invited to attend.

On alternate Thursday evenings the Gallery serves as a meeting place for some of these artists who come together to create their work. The artists draw on one another for assistance and inspiration in their creative expression. If you are interested in joining this informal art group, please call Irene at the Gallery for more information.

If your interests include photography, on April 9 at 7:00 p.m. Perfect Prints offers us a chance to learn more about it. Mr. Al Reed will be here to answer all your questions regarding picture taking. So bring your camera and your questions for a rewarding session. The admission is free for this event.

The Gallery is located on Bobcaygeon Road North, in the Minden Cultural Center Building that also houses the Library. The Gallery is open daily, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. For further information call 286-3763.

Senior curlers throw last rock of season

by Aileen Blears

*'Spring is the quickening...the birth,
The resurrection of the earth.
There is no death...of anything -
Life walks triumphant through the Spring.'*

Edna Jaques

Winter has been wiped out! It is now just a 'blank end'. Minden Senior Curlers completed a very successful season on Friday, March 20th.

In the past, the last day of curling has been called 'the last day of curling' or 'in-club bonspiel', but now it will be known as 'The Bill Donnelly Spiel', and the trophy, which was given in Bill's memory by his wife Fern and her family, will be awarded to the overall winning team.

Skip Lloyd Boskett, vice Earl MacDonald, second Aileen Blears and lead Shirley Duff were the first proud winners of this tribute to Bill. The trophy will be presented at the club's annual banquet on April 25th.

'He did not die...for somewhere in the sun
Forever lives what he has done.'

Steaks, which were purchased at IGA and looked good enough to turn a vegetarian into a carnivore, were awarded to the winning teams. Dollo's also, very generously, donated two large, beautifully wrapped fruit baskets.

'A' group winning teams were, first Ralph Palmer, second Frank Codlin, third Norm Gilmore, fourth Ed Bulger. Cross ice winners John Warren, Herb Gill, Rene Codlin and Cliff Scott.

'B' group winning teams were, first (and overall winners) Lloyd Boskett, second George Hewitt, third John E. Thomas, fourth Gil Scott. Cross ice winners Ross Codlin, Tony Dymott, Nancy Cook and Jack Gregory.

It was a 'bring-your-own-lunch' affair and most of the curlers remembered to do so, but a few, who must have had their hearing aids turned off when the announcement was made, came lunchless to the club. No one went hungry, however, as some members had more than enough and were happy to share. Angela O'Neill and her helpers supplied the coffee and 'sweets'.

Although this was the wind up for the curling season, there will be curling on Friday March 27th in order to fulfill the schedule. The March 20th games will be played on this date.

If you wish to attend the annual banquet (and who doesn't?), it will be held on April 25th at Deer Lodge. Please get your tickets on March 27th, they are $16.00 each.

Cadets strike gold

by Mabel Brannigan

On Monday night, more than 100 Cadet officers, parents and friends attended at the Haliburton Legion Auditorium to honour those eight cadets who were "bringing home the gold".

The eight had successfully completed the day-long testing at Peterborough Armouries which was open to Cadets across Ontario.

It is highly unusual for all candidates attempting the examination to pass on the first try. They did succeed with marks ranging from 76.2 per cent to 88 per cent.

M/Cpl. Kelly Morrison is the first female from 1129 to achieve the Gold Star Standard Award. Others receiving

Burnt River library will remain open

by Jerry Grozelle

The Burnt River Library will live on, at least for the time being.

Talk of closing the library, and possibly others in Victoria County, led to discussion at Victoria County Council recently. Somerville Deputy-Reeve Sue Douglas is one of the County Councillors who is fighting to keep the small community libraries open.

At the county meeting, it was decided to give the small libraries a reprieve. In the meantime, a meeting has been arranged to discuss ways of keeping the libraries operating while at the same time cutting costs.

"The rest of (County) Council was quite supportive of keeping the libraries open," Douglas said. The County Library Committee will be meeting on April 2 to discuss some possible cost-cutting measures.

"Maybe we can cut an hour a week (from the time the library is open), or institute a small charge to join the library," Douglas said.

The Burnt River Library is officially open nine hours per week at this time and there is no charge for area residents to join.

Besides studying other cost-cutting alternatives, the committee will be looking into the feasibility of moving the library to the school, which will be vacated at the end of this school year. The Burnt River Library has been in operation for at least 20 years, according to Douglas.

Burnt River Librarian June Hunter signs out several books. She says local libraries are essential in small communities. Hunter is also the Post Mistress at the combined post office and library facility.

Cadets do well at competition

this award are: M/Cpl. Ryan Smith, Sgt. Grant Wilson, Sgt. Randy Smith and Pte. Marcus Letourneau. Those Cadets receiving the Gold Star with Wreath are: Cpl. Aschenbrenner, W/O Morrison and Chief W/O MacDuff. Branch 129 extends congratulations to these eight candidates.

Also, best wishes are extended to Sgt. Grant Wilson who is moving to Barrie. Our loss will be Camp Borden's gain. Grant excels in all areas so we look forward to hearing good things about him in the future.

Reviewing Officers for the evening were President Ed Pickard, Liaison Officer

Walter Chambers and Honourary Cadet Mabel Brannigan. Walter Chambers congratulated Captain Denis Allaire and the 1129 Cadet Corps Officers whose leadership and dedication made possible this fine achievement.

After the Cadet march off and the retirement of the flags, the parents served a delicious lunch and a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

FOREST FIRES

BURN MORE THAN TREES

During 1991, 36 forest fires occurred in the Haliburton and Minden areas. The months of April and May are the most dangerous time. Dead grass and leaves will allow a fire to spread very quickly, resulting in the potential loss of life, dwellings and forest land.

Before you burn your grass, brush or debris, remember these important points:

1. You must obtain a fire permit;
2. Ensure that a responsible person tends the fire;
3. Keep the fire under control;
4. Upon completion, put your fire dead out. Even if it appears to out, stir it, and drown it with water, again and again, until you're sure it is out.
5. No burning allowed between 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.
(With the exception of Industrial Permits)

During the fire season (April 1st to October 31) the Forest Fires Prevention Act requires you to obtain a permit to be kept at the burning site and shown to an officer upon request. If you don't you could be fined up to $1,000.00, imprisonment up to three months and liable for any costs and expenses involved in extinguishing a resulting fire.

There are good times to sell. And there are bad times to sell. The best time to sell is when a person is ready to buy. And when people are ready to buy, they turn to their newspaper. Not their mailbox.

Too many times, advertising mail comes at exactly the wrong time, mixed among your important daily mail. Perhaps that explains why three times as many people would prefer to receive their advertising information from a paper.

Newspaper readers share a common curiosity about people, places, facts, figures. And prices. People turn to their newspaper for the latest price information, and they turn there with interest. Which means that's where your advertising message needs to be.

With all the choices available, it's difficult deciding how best to advertise your business. But everything becomes a little simpler when you remember one rule...

YOU GOTTA BE IN THE PAPER.

SUDBURY TO TORONTO AREA TRANSMISSION REINFORCEMENT STUDY

Background

In June, 1991 Ontario Hydro announced the beginning of environmental studies to identify locations for new transmission facilities in central Ontario to:

- provide adequate power transfer capability between northern and southern Ontario;
- ensure a reliable power supply in the northeast portion of the Greater Toronto Area (GTA);
- maintain the reliability and security of the bulk electrical system; and
- provide improved flexibility in meeting customers' energy needs.

Over the past months, and with the assistance of government ministries and agencies, municipalities, Aboriginal representatives, interested organizations and others, the project staff have collected and evaluated information on various land use, environmental, socio-economic, technical and other factors in the study area. Based on this information, a number of corridors and zones have been identified (see map) in which further detailed studies will be conducted to identify alternative transmission line routes and transformer or switching station sites. Ontario Hydro is holding Information Centres throughout the study area to discuss the study, review these corridors and zones, and include your comments in the planning process. Representatives of Ontario Hydro will be present to answer your questions. Maps and other study materials will also be available.

What are the Options?

The new facilities that could be required beginning in 2002 include two 500,000 volt (500 kV) single-circuit transmission lines from Hanmer Transformer Station near Sudbury to a new transformer station in the northeast GTA. This transformer station would be connected by a new 500 kV double-circuit transmission line to existing lines to the east and northwest of Toronto, terminating at existing or new transformer or switching stations. Sections of right-of-way in the GTA could include new 230 kV lines to connect these new facilities into the existing local power supply system. Considering potential long term needs, a third 500 kV single-circuit line between Sudbury and the Toronto area and a second 500 kV and 230 kV double-circuit line around the north and east GTA could also be required. In addition to identifying new transmission routes, the study will consider using existing transmission rights-of-way.

Public Involvement

Public involvement is an integral component of the environmental assessment process. The complete route and site selection study will be documented in an environmental assessment report and submitted to the Minister of the Environment for review in mid-1994, and will be the subject of a public hearing under the Consolidated Hearings Act.

Forum will discuss child care recommendations

Our community has recently seen many progressive changes in how various levels of government deal with issues that affect us, the consumer. The newly released Child Care Reform Paper and the consultation process planned to gather community input surrounding this document is no exception. A series of community focus groups are presently being organized as a means of capturing and gathering community input. They will be held in various locations throughout the county and will be announced shortly. In the interim, copies of the Child Care Reform Paper and other related documents will be available at the head office of C.H.A.C.E. Inc. (lower, rear-Halco Plaza, 457-2989) for anyone interested in participating in this process or for those interested in obtaining more information.

In essence, the Child Care Reform Paper speaks to a publicly funded, universally accessible system of quality child care comparable to health and education. The paper is based on the premise that although parents have the primary responsibility for child-rearing, as a society, we all have a responsibility to provide for the well-being of children. The proposed child care reform then, is grounded on the conviction that parents and society are partners in ensuring that children receive certain basic entitlements, including affectionate, consistent and competent care. This paper has been long anticipated by the child care community because, if passed into legislation by the target date of fall of 1993, could have far reaching implications for day cares and resource centers alike.

The four guiding principles which provide the foundation for the proposed reform framework are:

- *Quality is the cornerstone of the child care system;
- *Child care services must be affordable;
- *Child care must be accessible; and
- *The child care system must be soundly managed

In addition to the community focus groups mentioned above, the Province is organizing "Town Hall" meetings in various locations across the province - 18 in all. These meetings are open to the entire community and will be hosted by a panel consisting of senior Ministry of Community and Social Services personnel, Parliamentary Assistants, etc. These Town Hall meetings are a forum for parents, agencies representatives and any interested community members to voice their endorsements and/or concerns. The Town Hall meetings for our area will be held on:

April 15, 1:00-5:00 and 6:00-9:00

Admiral Inn and Conference Center

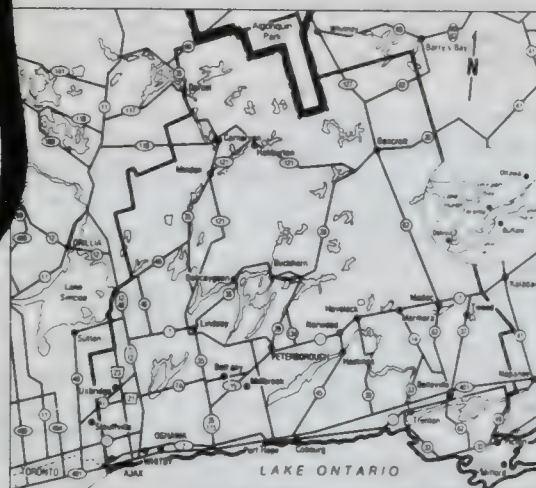

Hwy #7, West of #35, Lindsay, Ontario

Who should attend this meeting or the focus groups? Anyone with an opinion on child care. Do you endorse the concept of accessible, affordable day care? Is the welfare of our children significant to you? Are you an informal caregiver who feels excluded from this document? As a taxpayer with grown children, do you feel that child care should be a publicly funded system? Are you a stay-at-home parent who is wondering when you will be recognized as a significant care provider? Should you or your group/agency wish to make a brief presentation at the Lindsay Town Hall meeting, you simply need to confirm your spot by calling Kevin Morris at the Ministry of Community and Social Services at Zenith 37610. Watch for updates and advertisements announcing the local focus groups should you wish to participate in these. Your input is important.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Planetary biosphere is being 'ripped apart'

"Keep children out of the sun, Charest warns" was the banner headline of The Globe And Mail (Feb. 8) with a sub-heading that told us "Ozone damage prompts Environment Canada to plan daily report on cancer-causing rays."

Nice, sunny days have always been a wonderful gift to be enjoyed in the outdoors. Have we come to a time in history when we will venture out only when it's overcast or rainy? That headline should underscore the indisputable fact that the planetary biosphere, whose balance has evolved over thousands of millennia, is being ripped apart in a matter of decades.

Even though environmental collapse has catastrophic repercussions, we still keep it on the political back burner. Why? In part because fragmentation of our perceptions blinds us to the way the world really works.

Urban life relieves us from knowing where our garbage goes, the source of food and water, the destination of sewers or the origins of our electricity. No jobs, the recession, profit and Quebec separation which dominate our thinking and priorities seem unrelated to ecological change.

Since the economy is completely disconnected from the natural world and preoccupies politicians, it has been elevated above the environment. Thus I am often told that a clean environment depends on maintaining a strong economy.

So when times are tough, our surroundings are often made to absorb the cost of priming the economic pump through increased logging cuts, delayed pollution control, higher toxic emissions and commencement of destructive megaprojects without environmental assessments. We opt for immediate gains even though they diminish options for future generations and saddle them with deleterious consequences.

Since the magnitude and complexity of the global biosphere is difficult to imagine, it's easier to view it as a series of isolated fragments. It leads to grotesque contradictions such as Lucien Bouchard, while the federal environment minister, telling me global warming threatens the "survival of our species" and then defending past decisions that contribute to the problem.

That would be like arguing that the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor poses a serious threat to our lives but past peace treaties with them must be kept.

In preparation for the Earth Summit conference in Rio de Janeiro in June, delegates end up horse trading the future of the planet.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

The North is worried about the loss of biodiversity, deforestation and ocean pollution while priorities of the South are balancing debt, technology transfer and poverty. During the preparatory meetings, the South has steadfastly refused to discuss population unless the North addresses over-consumption. The upshot? Both of these crucial items have been left off the Rio agenda.

We just don't seem to have got the point that the ecological crisis cannot be resolved in a piecemeal fashion. By defining environmental problems as separate issues of forests, atmosphere, population, consumption and so on, we carve up the biosphere as if it can be "managed" by treating the symptoms in bits and pieces.

This fails to focus on the root cause which is US, the way we live and the way we think about our relationship with the rest of the planet. So long as we seek to impose OUR values and perceptions onto the rest of nature, we cannot avoid being destructive because the natural world cannot conform to the arbitrary geometric boundaries of human jurisdiction, nor alter itself to fit the simple-minded models we invent to manage "resources".

Most politicians, business people and media pundits just haven't got the message that the environment is not just another specialized subject like sports, business or entertainment.

But some high-profile and respected people have. One is Tennessee senator and U.S. presidential aspirant, Al Gore whose book, Earth In The Balance, I recently reviewed. Another is John Lutzenburger, an eloquent agronomist who is now Brazil's environment minister. And Prince Charles is an outspoken proponent of radical change to save the planet.

Another is Canada's Maurice Strong who is secretary-general of the Rio conference and sees the global eco-crisis with unusual clarity. Because he is not a flaky tree hugger or nature freak but a hard-nosed and successful businessman and a multi-millionaire, his words are especially chilling: "If we don't change, our species will not survive... Frankly, we may get to the point where the only way of saving the world will be for industrial civilization to collapse."

These strong words are only strengthened by the shocking rate of ozone layer loss.

Meals On Wheels is a programme of Haliburton County Home Support Services which provides a nourishing meal to Seniors or disabled persons. These meals are delivered by volunteers and consist of soup, entree, and dessert for a price of $3.50 per meal. Residents mark St. Patrick's Day with quiz and party

After a quiet weekend and a Chapel Service with Rev. John Burgess bringing us a very helpful service Sunday evening with Alice Jones playing the organ, we have had a very active week.

Monday morning we had fitness. At 1:00 Evelyn Coleman had Bible Study from Romans eighth chapter, for which we thank her. This was followed by a puppy petting party in the auditorium. Joan and Wally Bunn and their daughter Stacey, Rhonda Francis and her son Damell, brought their Scotch Collies to entertain us. They set up wire cages to control them. There was a "bearded collie", a "Sheltie tie blue collie" and a "sable coloured collie" (eight months being the oldest), and I think eight eight-week old puppies. They were not in the cages very much. Those pups never had so much petting and cuddling and may never again.

The resident's faces just beamed with happiness. Many thanks to those who made this possible.

March 17, as we all know, was St. Patrick's Day. It began with Pastor Fast taking Tuesday Chapel Service. Special guests at the Service were Connie, Becky and Sarah Schwartzen-ruber. The residents thank Pastor Fast and guests. In the afternoon we had the pleasure of music by Bill Geddis on the keyboard and Fred Cooper. Most residents and staff wore green and sat at tables around the auditorium and sipped fruit drinks, tea, coffee and Irish coffee. The main event was the first appearance of the Haliburton Highlands Cloggers in public. I understand the Cloggers were all from West Guilford. Their instructor is John Dickerson and Lloyd Priest manned the video camera. The girls were Kelly Mowder, Marianne

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Howard, Connie Houghton, Lisa Henry, Kim Henry, Lauri Blanchard, Mary Simms, Bonnie McCausland and Susan Houghton. We thoroughly enjoyed them and the entire day.

Wednesday after lunch we gathered in the auditorium to have a quiz on everything Irish. While answering questions we enjoyed an afternoon tea of loaf cake, cheese and English scones (made by Mary Oliver who is 102 years old). There were preserved crab apples to accompany the scones, picked from the tree at the back of Hyland Crest, cooked and canned by Linda Fry and Doris Robertson. It was all delicious and thank you to everyone who had a hand in providing it.

Thursday morning we had a treasure hunt. We were divided into two groups. Harry Hughes (Captain) of the O'Reillys and Winnifred Barnum (Captain) of the McNamaras. Each group had a list of objects to find anywhere in the Home. As it was Thursday tea party, it was decided who won when we had a delicious lunch served by the Hyland Crest Auxiliary Ladies - Marion Fisher, Jean Bolt, Angela O'Neil, Jean Robson, Anne Baker and Nancy Cook. Once again these ladies have filled the gap when needed and we sincerely thank them. The winners of the contests were: for guessing the weight of the Blarney Stone - Lillian Harrison; how many Murphys in a bag - Lillian Harrison. The Treasure Hunt was a tie, so we all got something. Thanks to all who put this together. In the evening Nancy and Troy Briggs called Bingo for us. Thank you Nancy and Troy.

To finish the week we had Happy Hour Friday. We were entertained by Connie and Mike Biagi and Frank Faulconer playing guitars, mouth organs, violins and saxophone. Linda Fry was requested to sing a solo and Linda and Doris to sing a duet. Volunteer was Mary Guillemin with Greg Sawyer tending the bar. Special help volunteer was Amanda Hiltz-Bontje, daughter of Phyllis Hiltz-Bontje, Nursing Director.

The residents of Hyland Crest wish to express their sympathy to the friends and relatives of Lillian Hogg, who passed away Sunday, March 22.

Wednesday evening Pastor Murray held a service in the Trillium Lounge. The residents thank him and his helpers very much.

Congratulations to Gaye and Vito Botticella on the arrival of their baby boy on March 24th.

Elsie Bursey has returned home after several months in New Zealand and a visit with her sister and husband in Australia.

There was a Family Night Friday, March 20 by Minden Bible Church when 61 people were bowling at Carnarvon and all had a great time.

At Wheels-to-meals luncheon at Minden Legion on March 24th winners were for lone hands, Willard Bridgman and others Betty Herlihey, Ken Rowden and Jack Weekes. Please note they need more people to come out to these events. All good wishes to Muriel Proctor who was in charge of these games at one time. Next games there are on Tuesday, April 7th.

Krista Vick spent the March break with the Woolfrey family at Bridgenorth.

Hyland Crest April birthday wishes go to Dora Dawson, April 23, Margaret Lebouillier, on April 29th and Harry Hughes on April 24th.

There were euchre games on the evening of March 24 at Gelert Centre with winners being: for lone hands, Reta Crofts, and others Grace Dixon, Lorna Bridgman, Norm Harrison Sr., and Bruce O'Brien, with next game being April 7th.

Congratulations to Joe and Sheila Graham on the arrival of their new baby boys.

Sunday guest with Bob and Audrey Vick were Dale, Kathy and Tyler Vick of Vandorf, Julie, Bill and Meighan Woolfrey of Bridgenorth.

Many on the sick list. Good wishes goes to Carl Francis, Kit Schroter, Mary Busby (with a broken hip), Bessie Burk, Jean Lacey, Peter McCormick, Bob Clark, Jim Morrison, Sherri Simmons, Harold Howarth, Bill Campbell, Frank Lemaitre, Alice Morrison, J.O. Jackson, Betty Davis, John Barclay, Stan Dawson, Ian McLaughlin, Max McKay, Murray Daniels, and anyone else we missed.

There are two special birthdays coming along, with congratulations to Florence Robinson on April 1st and to Beatrice Little who both celebrate their 80th birthdays.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. Cliff Godwin, Lionel Rowe, Lillie Hogg, and Breanna Morgan Barras who passed away since last week.

Maud Coulter and Wilma and Cliff Barry were in Peterborough last Thursday to attend a funeral.

Please note that the phone number for Sears Order Office is 286-2401, not even remotely like mine. Yes, I have been getting calls again.

Longing For Spring
We thought the winter was over and gone,
But still it seems to linger on.

We're tired of cold and tired of snow,
And temperatures dropping to thirty below.

We're tired of pipes which freeze and break
And using a shovel instead of a rake.

But soon the snow will disappear,
And then at last the birds we'll hear.

And when those birds begin to sing,

We'll thank the Lord for one more spring.

Florence Robinson.

The latest winners in the Lion's Club hockey pool are: Raylene Clark, Joyce Hunter, Alex Little, Lee Oster and York Marion (2).

The winners at the Club

35 Euchre on March 23 were: 50/50 draw: Jack Gregory. Lone hands: Bill Cowen. High Lady: Verna Sawyer. High Man: Jack Gregory. Others: Doreen Lewis, Bert Cowen and Ray Brown.

CARDS OF THANKS

To all volunteers - you know who you are! Thanks again for helping at our dance. Peace!

CARDS OF THANKS

It's been a little more than two months and from the inside out I can feel the scar-tissue forming, still soft and pink, you know, not tough like it will be in time; not nearly imperceptible like it will be in more time yet; but forming. No raw wound left now. Not a drop of it. This miracle thanks to time. Thanks to a faith in the abundance of life that my late husband and I shared. Thanks to many labours of love from many loving friends; many caring hearts and sympathetic ears and hard-working hands, and one or two strong shoulders to cry on. Thanks to all, I'm still happy. To mention a few names that especially stand out in memory and dwell in my heart, knowing full well I'll miss some because I didn't know 'til now how many real friends I had: Gordon and the Hilldwellers, my mom, Wendy, my sister, Nancy, Lyn and Garry, Gordon & Kirsten, Lyle & Debbie, Tara, the Dogs, Cindy Lou and far-away but close-in-spirit, Michael. Special hugs for Gladys, Elaine, Tom, Jim, Karen, Paul and Michael. I am blessed with great, good fortune by knowing all of you.
Sincerely, Joy Johnson-Barclay.

GUDMUNDSSON, Nicki who passed away December 16, 1991.

To everything there is a season, A time to every purpose under the heaven.

A time to be born,

And a time to die.

A time to sow,

And a time to reap.

A time to laugh,

And a time to weep.

And for some like you,

The time to be born,

Is soon followed by,

The time to die.

Remembered always, Mom, Dad and Justin
